And moving on...
Scotland is one of seven countries where greyhound racing is permitted. There is currently one greyhound racing track operating in Scotland, and the Scottish Parliament will soon vote on a proposal to end greyhound racing.

There are different views on the industry .
Animal welfare organisations say that many greyhounds suffer serious injuries and some dogs test positive for dangerous drugs.
Supporters of greyhound racing say the industry has the highest welfare standards and has made transformative improvements over the past few years.
Based on the above, which of the following best describes your view of greyhound racing?
